

House Burned to the Ground

You can not be sure that your home will not be the next to burn.

Loose matches, careless electric wiring, an incendiary, or one of a host of other causes may deprive you of your house. It's best to have foresight and let the insurance company protect you. We issue best policies.

LINEAL DESCENDANT OF ISAAC DAVIS DIES

At the Queen's Hospital yesterday morning at 11:30, Miss Manele Laanui passed away. She had been operated upon for appendicitis and appeared to rally, but yesterday sank rapidly. Miss Laanui was 26 years of age and was born in Honolulu. She was the daughter of Gideon D. Laanui and was the great-great-granddaughter of Isaac Davis. She was a second cousin of Miss Lucy Peabody and also of Mrs. Edgar Henriques.

Miss Laanui was educated at St. Andrew's Priory, her home being with Miss Peabody.

The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Henry Williams and the burial will take place from St. Andrew's cathedral on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The interment will be in Nuuanu cemetery, where her sister is buried.

Ralph Johnstone of the Internal Revenue Department returned yesterday from Kona where he has been representing the government at the new Okolehoo distillery. No commercial run-off of distilled liquor has yet been made.

There is no dead or shop-worn stock among the candies of the Alexander Young Cafe. The demand is steady and the factory supplies it daily.

CHINESE SCHOOL CHILDREN'S DAY

Yesterday was the fifth day of the 5th moon with the Chinese. It is a festival of school children, signaling the beginning of vacation, which is universally and most joyously celebrated throughout the celestial empire. Here the day is more quietly yet not perfunctorily observed by the Chinese colony with feasting in the homes and picnics in the country. Members of the rising generation of Chinese in Honolulu gave evidence of having a good time yesterday and exploded firecrackers with a prodigality and vim which might be envied by young America on the Fourth of July.

A RAINIER TOAST

The burning questions of the day
The papers agitate, they say,
And yet, unnoticed, and unsung
Is one that smacks of foreign tongue;
The "Snark" is truly queer in name,
The shark is better known to fame,
The "Snark" she sails the bright, blue sea,
The sharks look on and murmur: "Gee!"

Here's to
